Living with Intention

Words on the Wind

by Rev. Jennifer Nordstrom

What does it mean to live with intention? In January of 2022, the question feels like a Zen Buddhist koan, a paradoxical riddle that might break open our understanding of reality. Perhaps living with intention means making a plan, and then living it out. Or perhaps it means living our values while adapting to the chaos of the world.

In the infinity loop consciousness of trying to plan during this pandemic, let me tell you more about our First Church plan to return to in-person church.

Multi-Platform Church Options

Sundays: On February 6, we plan to return to every-Sunday in-person worship services at 9:00 a.m. and 11:00 a.m., religious education at 9:00 a.m. only, as well as other church activities. Online worship will continue every week at 10:00 a.m. with a shorter service of the opening, worship associate story, interlude, sermon, and closing.

Worship in the sanctuary will be limited to 100 people per service. All will be required to be masked and provide proof of vaccination or a negative PCR COVID test required for everyone above the age of 5. We will share information about how to reserve your seats soon.

Memorial Services: We are now open to in-person Memorial Services at the church, limited to 100 attendees per service, masked, with proof of vaccination or a negative PCR COVID test required for everyone above the age of 5. Because we are able to offer in-person Memorial Services and in-person grief support and worship, we will discontinue our COVID Candle practice during worship beginning in February.

Staff-led Teams: For several weeks, these teams have been meeting in-person at the church, with an option for those who wish to join the meeting online. This has allowed us to experiment and refine the technology and systems. They will continue to do so.

Member-led Groups: We hope to open up to member-led in-person indoor meetings at the church in early 2022. The staff person who leads your ministry area will contact you when we are ready to train you on the new systems.

Many of you have asked how the Omicron variant will affect our plans. Our new in-person church plan's safety is based on vaccination or a negative COVID PCR test, instead of the Milwaukee County COVID incidence rate on which our previous plan was based. This means the new plan should be safe at all levels of COVID transmission, so we hope Omicron will not affect our new plans. If, however, Omicron has significant "vaccine escape" (meaning it gets around vaccination's immunity), then we will have to reconsider our plans again. We hope that does not happen.

We are living with the intention of seeing you in church and staying humble in our planning. We are so grateful to you for your commitment to Unitarian Universalism and our shared values in all the chaos of the world.

With love,
Jennifer

January Share the Plate

Project RETURN (Returning Ex-incarcerated people To Urban Realities and Neighborhoods) exists to help men and women make a positive, permanent return to community, family, and friends.

Project RETURN's staff helps clients overcome barriers created by incarceration to help aid in a successful reentry. Programs offered address the direct needs of those served, working to increase the prospects of success and lower the chances of recidivism.

Often people come to Project RETURN at a time of crisis—not looking beyond their immediate needs. Experienced staff members, most of whom are formerly incarcerated individuals, work one-on-one with clients to help them navigate through the moment and look beyond that situation to "next steps."

Whether a client needs assistance with housing, employment, alcohol/other drug abuse, or simply someone to vent to, they are welcomed at Project RETURN.

For more information visit their website at projectreturnmilwaukee.org. Contributions can be made securely online at the First Church link here or mail your check to First Church made payable to Project Return.

Dena's Digressions

by Rev. Dena McPhetres

“Living with Intention” is our theme for January. Not living with intentions plural, which we do all the time, often subconsciously, but living with intention, singular. If you struggle with New Year’s resolutions, think about a question posed in the Soul Matters Theme Circle packet: “What is your intention when you wake up? Some begin the day by asking, ‘What do I have to get done?’ Others ask, ‘What do I want this day to be about?’ Which are you?”

My days are usually ruled by To-Do lists. I am a list-maker and a list checker-offer. I find this way of life satisfying and mostly effective. How would my day transform if I were guided by a To-Be list instead? Tomorrow, my singular intention is to be grateful. I’m going to put that at the top of a To-Be list. I want the day to be about noticing gratitude and feeling grateful.

The next day, I might choose something else: my singular intention will be kindness and I’ll put that at the top of the To-Be list. I want the day to be about noticing kindness and being kind. The idea is that everything I’m doing will be undergirded by a singular worthy intention to be in a way that will inform and influence what I’m doing.

Don’t get too impressed—I’m talking about jotting my intention for the day on a Post-it note while I’m eating breakfast and attaching the Post-it note to my microwave, computer monitor, bathroom mirror. It’s going to take multiple reminders. I offer this to you as a spiritual exercise. I won’t hold you to it or be disappointed in you or myself like a New Year’s resolution vortex. It’s an offering.

Try amending the Soul Matters question this way: “Some begin the year by asking, ‘What do I have to get done this year?’ Others ask, ‘What do I want this year to be about?’ Which are you?”

Dear Ones, what do you want this year to be about? When you find your answer, use it as your guiding compass.

All in the Family

Life is hard sometimes. We experience sickness, job loss, broken hearts, and broken bodies. We want to support you through those difficult times.

We send our condolences to the friends and family of Rev. Dale Robison, who died in November of 2021. He was 87 years old and served as the minister of First Church in the early 1980s.

Our heartfelt condolences are with our dear Rev. Kimberlee whose mother-in-law Dr. Jean Marie Carlson Adams died on November 24, 2021 at the age of 80 at Hospice Alliance in Pleasant Prairie, Wisconsin.

A Memorial service will be broadcast live from Bradford Community Church Unitarian Universalist in Kenosha, Wisconsin at 11:00 a.m. on January 22 at BradfordUU.org.

Kimberlee's Contemplations

by Rev. Kimberlee Tomczak Carlson

As we welcome 2022, we welcome a long-anticipated return to being together in our church building, and religious education classrooms this February. How I have missed being able to see our families together in-person, in our church building exploring, learning, asking questions and forming relationships with one another. My excitement is quelled only by the need to center the safety and care for our families as we cautiously make our preparations for Religious Education (RE) to return.

As we make this transition to rebuild our Religious Education program together, we will be navigating new limitations and ways of being with one another. The Religious Education program at our church has always depended on volunteer teachers that invest their time with our children, offering themselves as faithful adult guides. When we set our intention to teach our children honestly about religion, social justice, oppression, their sexual health, while encouraging them to develop their spirituality; we make an investment in hope for our present and our future.

As we begin again, I ask for your patience, and I ask for your time. Find a way to share to come downstairs and grow with our children.

Each Religious Education class at our church requires two adults to be present, come be one of those amazing adults. You can sign up here: <https://bit.ly/REFUSMVolunteer>.

All volunteers who work with our children will need to be vaccinated and willing to have a general background check to ensure the safety of our families. The time you commit to is flexible, one Sunday or twelve, and all RE classes will be during first service at 9:00 a.m. this spring.

We still begin each RE class with, "We are the church of the open mind, ...the helping hands, ... the loving heart. Together we care for our earth, and work for peace and friendship in our world." An intention worth your time, an intention that needs your nurturing.

During the month of January, I will be focusing on preparing the RE rooms, setting the schedules, crafting the lessons our volunteers will teach and rebuilding our program. Our online RE programs on Thursdays and Sundays in January will not be happening to make time for these preparations.

I look forward to seeing you downstairs making our UU intentions real!

Lock in Intention

by Lynne Jacoby

Living with Intention is hard for me, and one of the reasons I value church. I've an idea how I want to live (well mostly) but then I forget, or get distracted, or bumped out of perspective! After 30ish years attending UU services, new insights regarding how I want to be are rare. But the times my mind or emotions reshape softly around an "oh yeah...that's right" are very common. And precious. And needed all too often.

I was reminded of this when we held a service at Lake Park on a cold, damp, drizzly snowy morning this past November. I've gotten used to attending services in my jammies, plus the weather forecast was looking grim so when Jennifer texted early that morning, "We're a go" I was like, "Really?". And putting on my long johns and boots I was muttering all manner of unfriendly things.

But by half-way though the service I had a big grin beneath my mask thinking, "Okay. Totally worth it!"

I should have known, because it wasn't the meaningful words, or cute baby blessing, or wonderful music, though all that was wonderful. It was being in the midst of a community of people whose intention, en masse, was so much larger and more grounded than my own. It was all of us.

In February we will be gathering together again in-person weekly. I will have to be there, even on days my perspective has been so far bumped I forget the hope you all inspire in me, but then I'm very lucky like that!

Sign Up for Ushering

If church is a practice that supports your intentional life, I invite you to consider buttressing your own practice by volunteering to usher. Ushering is a once-a-month obligation to show up and participate in our welcome of members, friends and visitors, as well as support the smooth operations of our in-person services. Plus, we just need you! Email me at lynne.jacoby@uumilwaukee.org or Cheri Briscoe at cherib41@gmail.com if you would like to volunteer. Thanks!

Earth Justice Ministry Joins Coalition on Lead Emergency

by Bruce Wiggins

Co-Chair Earth Justice Ministry

First Church's Earth Justice Ministry (EJM) is becoming a member of the Coalition on Lead Emergency (COLE), furthering its environmental justice work. A few years ago, First Church supported COLE through a grant from the Lu Krug bequest to further COLE's educational and water filter distribution efforts.

COLE looks to the day when each known source of lead poisoning is eliminated from Milwaukee. No level of lead is safe and we have a serious lead poisoning problem here. COLE engages a broad range of community partners – nonprofits, environmentalists, educators, physicians, attorneys, and other community activists.

COLE's Education Committee provides support, resources, and direction to the COLE teams, as they implement community-wide lead education. Its Workforce Development Committee is setting up programs for lead abatement training. The Advocacy Committee is creating change through legislation, partnerships, and practice. COLE has been able to hire a dynamic but unfortunately only temporary/part-time organizer for COLE Parents Lead. This is a group of parents and families that have been impacted by lead poisoning.

Terry Wiggins, who formerly served as an Interfaith Earth Network representative to COLE, will serve as EJM's representative. Contact Terry on the EMJ group the church website or on Member Portal Realm if you are interested in learning more or volunteering with COLE.

Circles of Support Update

by Paul Geenen

I want to thank the ten members of First Church who met last year over 40 times with returning citizens in our Circles of Support. Our members listened to their stories and offered support as they reintegrated into our community. Our Circles of Support did a good job in meeting the challenge of drawing out reticent returning citizens.

Another Circles of Support, titled "God's Circle," has invited us to join their monthly discussions and we now need another 8-10 people. Please let me know if you would be interested in participating in one of the two Circles being offered. The time commitment is 90-minutes every other month or so. Three members of First Church participate in each monthly circle, ensuring a balanced conversation between all participants.

First Church's next Circles of Support is Wednesday, January 19, 6:00- 7:15 p.m., via Zoom. Please email paul.geenen9@gmail.com if you can join us as a guest and explore whether dialoging with returning citizens is something for you.

Social Justice plays a major role at First Church and is part of our church's value of Justice. Rev. Jennifer Nordstrom shares the role social justice plays at First Church in a video on our Facebook page.
